Best gains are between 25 and 50, where 50 is the hard cap. Luck is a stat in Dark Souls 3. See the table for which values. LUCK SCALING VALUE For calculation, take the base damage or bleed/poison build-up and multiply it per this value, to know the gain at 99 luck.Ex with Pontiff knight great scythe bleeding. Holding a weapon infused with Hollow while at 15 or more Hollowing increases the player's Luck based on the weapon's upgrade level (+5 to Luck at upgrade +10), and it can be stacked by holding a Hollow shield or offhand weapon. Luck determines how often your enemies will drop several items upon their death, through Item Discovery. The Man-Grub's Staff's spell damage, Anri's Sword and Hollow infused weapons receive damage scaling based on Luck. At certain Luck values you gain additional Curse Resistance, going all the way up to 99. Physical damage (AR) scales with luck when the weapon is hollow-infused (note a hollow weapon gives +5 luck when wielded if your hollow level > 15). For each point of luck you receive one point of Item Discovery, up to a hard cap at 99 Luck (199 Item Discovery). Anri's straight sword physical AR will naturally scale strongly with luck (A scaling, +110% AR at 99 luck) Man-grub's staff: exceptional S luck scaling, the magic/dark damages from the sorcery spells scale with luck. However note this scaling is almost null (E scaling, only +16% at 99 luck). Raises Bleed and Poison applying speed, but not damage dealt. For a given weapon, the luck scaling will always be in the following order:Blood/poison infusions > hollow infusions > regular weapon > other infusions > raw/deep/fire infusions (=0) SPECIAL WEAPONS Eleonora axe: its weapon art "Feast Bell" applies 55 bleeding to the weapon, scaling with luck. Luck Effects Characters begin with 100 Item Discovery.
